KLAN KLEAGLE KING OBJECT WIZARD'S FIRE

Simmons Brands a Former Officer of Society as Bad Check Man

HE GETS FROM UNDER

Two More Heads of Ku Klux Klan Send in Their Resignations as Officers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A bitter attack on C. Anderson Wright, former king kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan, featured the cross examination today of Colonel William J. Simmons, imperial wizard of the organization by the house rules committee which is to decide whether the Klan shall be investigated by congress.

Simmons held that Wright was trying to "get from under" for issuing a number of back checks. Wright had admitted to the committee that a number of his checks, drawn on the treasury of the Klan were dishonored.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—Grand Goblin C. W. Love of the Great Lakes domain of the Ku Klux Klan resigned today. Love, who was head of the stronghold of the "invisible empire of the north," comprising Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, sent his resignation to Imperial Wizard William Simmons who is now in Washington. R. B. Love, brother of the goblin, also resigned his post as king kleagle of Indiana. Both brothers said they were leaving the city to engage in business and that their resignations did not necessarily men they were out of the order.

POSTOFFICE SEEMS PROBABLE FROM WIRE TODAY

A separate postoffice for Glendale seems to be an assured fact according to a telegram received this morning by W. A. Perrin of the Glendale Savings Bank. The telegram was from a newspaper man in Nebraska who was a guest of Mr. Perrin's in Glendale this summer. He became interested in Glendale and contemplates purchasing property here. After leaving Glendale he visited Washington, and in company with Congressman Lineberger visited the postoffice department and they were assured that Glendale will have a separate postoffice within a very short time.

Glendale has won its hardest battle, if the promise is kept. The fight has been carried on over a period of six months and the telegram has injected new hope in the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations in their campaigns for a "Bigger and Better Glendale, the Fastest Growing City in the West".

The telegram received by Mr. Perrin said:

"Today I accompanied Congressman Lineberger through the department in continuation of his months of strenuous efforts to get an independent postoffice for Glendale. He was successful and independent postoffice is ordered. Tell newspaper. For further information see extended telegram to W. E. Evans.

"(Signed) F. A. HARRISON."

In a telegram to W. E. Evans today, Congressman Lineberger quoted the following letter received by Lineberger from Hubert Work, first assistant postmaster general:

"'With reference to your personal call today, at which time we reviewed the papers in connection with the establishment of a postoffice at Glendale, California, I have to inform you that the department has decided on favorable action and will establish an independent postoffice at Glendale as soon as possible."

SEPARATE TRIAL IS OBJECT OF HEARING IN KENEDY CASE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—Fight for a separate trial for Madalynne Obenchain, charged with conspiracy in the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, wealthy stockbroker, will begin in earnest Monday when her attorneys will present affidavits declaring that her trial jointly with Arthur C. Burch, accused of the murder, would place her in jeopardy.

Ralph Obenchain, former husband of the fair defendant, and her chief counsel, will probably argue the demand for a separate trial before Judge Reeve, Monday. Judge Reeve has declared that he will not countenance separate trials.

At today's hearing, when the continuance until Monday was granted, Mrs. Obenchain appeared pale and distraught. A sleepless night, she said, was the reason for the loss of her usual good spirits.

Condition of Spirit Is Mysterious Thing Says James W. Foley

The condition of spirit, that mysterious thing that no one has been able to analyze, the power of music, the national air—these are the thoughts that James W. Foley deals with in "The Listening Post" this evening. You will find it on the editorial page.

Henry James discusses the result of the conference on unemployment and the fact that the Congregational ministerial union has gone on record against a movie censorship.

Dr. Frank Crane gives an impression on polygamy from the viewpoint of a Frenchman who holds that it is better for one man to make three women happy than to make one woman wretched. Dr. Crane doesn't expect you to agree with this thought. but he places it before you that you may get the other angle of the question and discuss it with a knowledge of both sides.

The girl left home yesterday morning to attend school and that is the last trace the mother has of her. No reason for the girl's disappearance can be given by the parents. She seemed very much interested in her work at the school and was advancing rapidly, according to the mother.

When last seen Irene was wearing a blue serge dress, was bareheaded and wore a pair of black and tan shoes. She is 16 years old and weighs 125 pounds. Chief Martin has detailed several officers to search for the girl and it is believed some trace of her will be found by night.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN BAKERSFIELD OIL DISTRICT

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Oct. 13.—The oil strike situation is rapidly developing beyond bounds, Walter J. Yarrow, union adviser, told the United Press today.

"Sheriff Newell will not be able to cope with the situation much longer," Yarrow said.

A truck load of alleged gunmen entered the Associated Oil Company's lease near here during th night, according to Captain Powell of the strikers' "law and order committee" which has been patrolling the highways.

"'I'm going to drop the first man that steps in my way,' George Burton, one of the gunmen told the law and order committee," Captain Powell asserted today. "'I never miss my shot,' Burton said."

Feeling throughout Kern county is running higher than at any time since the strike trouble started, and it is feared that a gun battle may develop tonight.

UNDERWOOD WILL BE VERY GOOD MAN IN ARMS PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The rare faculty of making warm friendships among even those who differ with him politically or otherwise is one of the happy characteristics of Senator Oscar W. Underwood, the ony Democrat on the American "Big Four."

Aside from his recognition of the unusual mental attainments of the Democratic minority leader of the Senate, President Harding is believed to have been actuated by a deep personal regard for the Alabama senator in designating him as one of the American "Big Four" at the Washington conference

In the long, rancorous Senatorial fight over the treaty of Versailles and the league of nations covenant Harding, then a senator, and Underwood entertained and expressed widely divergent opinions. They were on different sides of the political fence. But however they differed they became and remained fast friends.

In some ways the two men possess strikingly similar characteristics. Both are large men—physically. Both have an infectious smile, a countenance given to fullness and to beaming tolerance and good nature, a girth inclined to embonpoint—the Falstaffian disposition to seek from life that which is pleasant rather than unpleasant.

FIND COIN OF 1329 ON FACE IN VIRGINIA

SPARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 13.—Did African slaves roam the soil of West Virginia two centuries before Columbus discovered America?

That is the question puzzling coin collectors and. ethnologists of the state.

Joseph Nazelle Stealey, aged 14, son of Joseph C. Stealey of 32 North street, has just dug two coins, approximately 600 years old, from a virgin vein of coal at a small mine near his home, finding them firmly embedded in the seam while helping his father at the mine.

One coin is silver, the other copper. On one side of each is a crude picture of a human head or skull. On the other, one bears the date of 1329 and the other the date of 1330, while there also appears a unique design similar to that found on a rare specimen of African postage stamp, thus indicating that the coins may have been of African origin.

Now, this being the case, could African slaves have roamed what is now West Virginia six centuries ago? If so, how did they get here? Furthermore, could the seam of coal be formed geologically within that time?

GIANTS WIN SERIES IN TIGHTEST GAME DURING CONTEST

	R.	H.	E.
Giants	1	6	0
Yanks	0	4	1

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—John McGraw's Giants became baseball monarchs of the universe here this afternoon when they defeated the New York Yankees, 1 to 0, in the eighth and decisive game of the world series.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the Gibraltar of the Yank infield, fell down in the first inning and paved the way for the Giants' only run. Waite Hoyt, the Brooklyn youth was jointly responsible for the victory of the Giants. Hoyt put the winning run on the bases when he walked Bancroft. Peck then mussed up Kelly's grounder and Bancroft was over the plate with the run.

Arthur Nehf, twice defeated in the series, came back and pitched a brilliant game.

He wobbled several times but was saved by the brilliant work of his inner defense.

The great Babe Ruth with his arm swollen to twice its normal size, disobeyed orders of his physicians and went in as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning, trying to ward off what then looked like certain defeat. The swat king failed and went out on an easy grounder.

The Yanks had their big chance in the fourth. With two down Pipp and Ward singled and Nehf, losing control momentarily, walked Baker, filling the bases. Echang came up and drove a long fly which Burns pulled in for a fine catch.

Rawlings' great work at second base and at bat, and the work of George Burns' outfielding was features of the Giants' play.

Cold weather made the crowd a big disappointment, as there were not more than 20,000 in the stands.

Mr. Chapman is said to be a coffee salesman who will be able to make good use of the car in his business.

A large audience was present at the new church on the corner of Elk and Louise to witness the award and a brief musical program was given to which Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard contributed a vocal duet and Miss Viola Yorba a vocal solo.

Father James O'Neill made a little talk in which he thanked Catholics and protestants alike for their patronage of the fair and expressed his satisfaction in the sum realized for the church fund.

W. B. Kelley, who was the chairman of the committee having charge of the auto award, expressed his pleasure in the fact that it had been captured by Mr. Chapman in a perfectly fair contest.

UNEMPLOYMENT NOT HARD TO HANDLE SAYS H. FORD

There Are Jobs for Every Man Declares Well-Known Motor Car Man

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 13.—"If the Government will let me have Muscle Shoals, I'll teach it something about solving unemployment problems." Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer and owner of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad, made that statement in an exclusive interview with the United Press here, prior to his departure for the West Virginia coal fields Wednesday night.

"There are jobs in this country for every man who wants to work," he said. "We have shown this country something about employing men, but that is only a start to what we can do if we get Muscle Shoals, isn't it, gentlemen?" as he turned to his son, Edsel, and three executives—C. E. Soresen, W. H. Smith and W. C. Cowling, who are accompanying him on his trip.

The Muscle Shoals plant was established by the Government during the war for the manufacture of nitrates. Ford has offered to take over the establishment to manufacture fertilizer, but his offer has not been accepted.

Although his party is not concerning itself with negotiations for purchase of other railroad lines, Ford announced that his secretary was to consult with officials of the Cincinnati, Milford & Blanchester traction line here today.

"If the figure is right, I have told my secretary to notify officials of the road that I would be interested," he said. The road would be converted into a branch road of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton road.

LONG QUESTION NOW BEING ASKED SIX IDAHO DOCTORS

State Still Trying to Connect Woman With New Clues of Former Crimes

TWIN FALLS, Ida., Oct. 13.—Two hypothetical questions of approximately 1500 words each regarding the probable cause of the death of Edward F. Meyer, fourth husband of Mrs. Lyda Southard, were propounded today by District Attorney Frank Stephan to six physicians, who were asked to state whether in view of the facts brought out at the trial, they attribute Meyer's death to arsenic poisoning.

District Attorney Stephan today continued his efforts to run down the clues in his possession regarding Ben Cheesman, the alleged "sixth victim" of Mrs. Southard, whom she is reported to have married somewhere in the Pacific northwest some time early in 1920, a few months before her marriage to Meyer.

The latest clues in Stephan's possession he said, seem to indicate that Mrs. Southard knew, or met Cheesman either in Portland, Ore., or Seattle, or Spokane, Wash., and went to Canada with him, where he died shortly after their marriage and where she is said to have become interested in some sort of trouble.

The state is particularly interested in information regarding Cheesman because of statements Mrs. Southard made to automobile men when she was purchasing her high priced roadster at the time of her marriage to Meyer, to the effect that she "expected to have $8,000 or $10,000 from land in Canada or Montana" in time to pay for the machine. Thus far the state has never been able to learn that she ever had any land in Canada or Montana.

American Navy Seriously In Need of Submarines

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — The American navy is seriously lacking in the latest type of submarines, according to information made public by the Navy Department. "On paper" the United States has 142 submarines, but many of them are considered obsolete. Types of submarines in which the United States is "lacking" include the mine layer and the huge fleet submarine.

The announcement was regarded as one of much importance by officials here, who are known to be opposed to any possible suggestion for cutting into present building plans of the Navy Department.

The United States has no minelayer types at all, but has three fleet submarines of the so-called V type under construction. These three boats are government designed and are the last word in their class. They are building on the ways at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard. They are about 2000 tons surface displacement 340 feet long and have a surface speed of 21 knots.

Foreign Navies Lead

Foreign navies, though, have exceeded even this displacement, the German navy having built, during the war, undersea boats of 2200 tons. The British navy today has another type in which we are lacking, the so-called M type of submarine, which mounts powerful, large-caliber guns. The American navy also lacks distance cruiser submarines.

The navy considers that it is highly important to the national defense that the United States construct at least three each of these last-named types, if only for experimental and development purposes, so that in any national emergency the government would be able to proceed on a larger scale with the types best suited to our needs.

U. S. Has 142 Submarines

The submarine force of the American navy today consists of 142 craft of all types and ages, including those authorized but still under construction. At present 101 boats are in commission, with 41 on the ways. The different classes of boats are designated alphabetically, commencing with the B-1, the oldest in the service, built during 1900-1903. The B, D, E and F classes, with four lake-type N boats, are now considered obsolete and are shortly to be withdrawn from service. The H, K, L and M and the other N types have not a very wide raduis of action, but are considered useful for coast defense. The newer types, including the O, R and S classes, represent a distinct improvement over their predecessors, especially as to habitability, size and cruising radius, which latter is from 6000 to 10,000 miles. Of the S class there are three groups—Holland, Lake and government type.

Some Are Unreliable

The present design of the Holland type, it is stated by the Navy Department, has proved unreliable, so that the completion of 31 of the S boats is being held up until the desired changes in design of the engine have been made. The navy has three submarines of the T class, known as fleet submarines. They were built as an experiment, being the largest ever undertaken by this government, but have not proved a success as accompanying craft for the fleets owing to the unreliability of their engines and light torpedo armament.

Uder the present organization there are shore-based divisions and divisions based on mother ships, capable of moving about. The submarine fleet is distributed on both coasts, in the Canal one, Hawaii and in the Philippines. With the development of the newer types an even more powerful distribution is expected, owing to the important place the submarine has achieved in naval strategy.

VENTURA, Oct. 13.—The marriage of Cecil Adams and Alice Chaffee, young daughter of Hyde Chaffee, local banker, was annulled by Judge Merle J. Rogers. The girl testified that she wanted the marriage annulled and Adams, who was also in court, said he wished it, too.

BANDITS CAUGHT

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 13.—The five robbers, who, drugged the manager and two clerks, both women, of the Bank of Hochelaaga at Elie, Man., and escaped with between $40,000 and $60,000 cash and securities, were captured about 5 o'clock, after being surrounded in a hay stack near Elie by a citizens' posse.

COLORED "KLAN"

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Four arrests followed a series of riot calls when police put an end to a clash between 25 white youths and an equal number of negroes, who, according to statements to police, have been going under the name of the "Black Ku Klux Klan," and have caused uneasiness in an uptown neighborhood for several days.

"WET" JUROR

REDFORD CITY, Va., Oct. 13.—Holding that preachers are dealing too much politics now instead of preaching the gospel, Judge B. C. Scott of Richmond, imposed a fine of $25 on the Rev. T. E. Boorde for alleged contemptuous remarks concerning Judge P. H. Dillard, who, it was alleged, was referred to by the minister as a "wet" jurist.

OUT OF BUSINESS

MIDDLETON, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Because the automobile has largely supplanted the horse in the country, the Ammakating Wallkill and Crawford Horse Thief Detective Society, which has been in existence since July 9, 1877, has voted to disband. The organization has a fund of $1000 left in the treasury.

CRACKED JOINTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The air was heavy and peaceful yesterday and David Scharsnen sat in a house awaiting a business appointment. David felt langorous. He yawned and stretched. There was a dull, clicking sound and David screamed, then fainted. He was taken to Volunteer hospital with a dislocated shoulder, fixed up and sent home with his arm in a sling.

TROTZKY CHANGES

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 13.—The name Trotzky is a handicap no American should be compelled to labor under, County Judge Watson said today. He permitted Trotzky to change his name to Benjamin Travers.

MARY'S SISTER

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Mme. Helen Goethel, who joined the Chicago Opera Company this season as a soprano from Geneva, has been found to be Mary Garden's sister. Only a small circle of friends were aware that Miss Garden had a younger sister, the wife of a reputed wealthy Geneva merchant.

QUICK WORK

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 13.—Dan Drake of Brush, Colo., and Frank Jones, St. Louis, who staged a holdup here, obtaining $2.04 from a man and woman, pleaded guilty to charges of highway robbery in Circuit Court and were sentenced to 25 and 30 years in the penitentiary.

SEIZED PROPERTY TO BE RETURNED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—President Harding has approved an agreement between the Alien Property custodians of the United States and Great Britain whereby all property of American citizens seized by the British and that of British seized by the United States will be returned in cases where it has been proven that no German interests are involved.

Several million dollars worth of this class of property was seized by the two countries on the grounds that it was partly owned by Germans.

ARBUCKLE FILMS ARE BARRED IN BAY CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Opposition to the exhibition of any pictures portraying Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle even in the event of his acquittal on the charge of manslaughter in the death of Virginia Rappe, was voiced by the Vigilant Committee at the California Clubhouse, in resolutions passed by the executive committee. The action followed reading of a letter from the clubwomen of Los Angeles, who have placed a ban on the Arbuckle pictures. Arbuckle is due from Los Angeles today to plead in the Superior Court to the information charging manslaughter, upon which he was held for trial.

CROOKS GET JOBS ON CHICAGO FORCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—In the list of 500 applicants for jobs as policemen, who had passed examination, the chief dropped 66. Among them were ten hold-up men, two under indictment for murder, six burglars and ten convicted of larceny. One of the eligibles was found by investigators to have committed three hold-ups since he took the examination. Another was recently released from an insane asylum. Still another, whose name appeared high on the eligible list, was arrested nine times since 1913. He was thrice fined and thrice sentenced to the house of correction for larceny, and also was charged with disorderly conduct, robbery and vagrancy during the seven years.

The past is supposed to be dead but there are a lot of people in the world whose chief happiness comes from digging it up like a dog digs up a buried bone.

GAMBLING ODDS BARRED IN PAPERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Transmission through the mails of newspapers publishing betting odds on horse races, prize fights and "other contests of speed, strength and skill" would be prohibited under a bill passed today by the House without a roll call.

As introduced by Representative Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, the bill was designed to further tighten the postal laws to exclude fraudulent devices and lottery paraphernalia from the mails. Representative Walsh, Republican, Indiana, offered the amendment which was adopted by a viva voce vote to extend to newspapers and dope sheets which quote betting odds. Imprisonment of not more than five years or a fine of not more than $5000, would be provided for publishers violating the law.

Mr. Walsh declared that if the gambling spirit, "which is demoralizing in its effect," were not abated, "we will wake up some fine morning and find the United States in the same sort of a mixup Russia is in."

WOMEN HOBOES IN NORTH NUMEROUS

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Oct. 13.—Pasco, 39 miles from here and junction of the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific systems, is suffering from an influx of women hoboes. During the last week an average of two women daily, dressed as men, have been taken from freight trains. The women, who have been working in Idaho and the Couer d'Alene country, are bumming their way back to Seattle for the winter. Many are accompaied by their husbands. Having no adequate jail accommodations, the city of Pasco gives them suspended sentences and so many hours in which to leave town.

HOTEL SHORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Ritz-Carlton has begun suit in the Supreme court demanding judgment for the amount of $2135.35 against Mrs. Belmont Tiffany. The sum named is the balance of a bill accruing from a reception and ball for Mrs. Tiffany's debutante niece, Miss Mary McLeod Cameron, given at the hotel on December 17, last, which, according to the hotel maangement, Mrs. Tiffany has neglected to pay.

The road to success always lies across the hills of sacrifice.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Luster With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

GLENDALE AVENUE RESIDENTS TO ASK AN ELECTRIC LINE

Meeting on Friday to Prepare Petition for City Connection on That Street

The Glendale Avenue Improvement Asspciation of which Harry Levey is president and Frank Mark, secretary, will have a meeting Friday at 8 o'clock p. m. in the city hall on East Broadway. The object will be to organize committees for the circulation of petitions for the electrolization of the Glendale avenue line. All property owners on that thoroughfare and adjacent territory will be asked to sign and when the canvass is completed the petition will be presented to the city council and chamber of commerce with request for their coopepration in negotiations with the Union Pacific railroad which now owns the Salt Lake spur on Glendale avenue. If the petitioners fail to get consideration from the railroad company, the association plans to carry it to the railroad commission.

The books of the railroad company show a heavy and profitable freight traffic and Mr. Levy and others who are endeavoring to bring about electrolization of the line argue that the freight could as well be carried in trolley cars in connection with passenger service.

Optimists with a big vision of Glendale's future have predicted the building of a trolley line which would tap the surrounding communities of La Canada, Sunland, Monte Vista, Tujunga and Roscoe which are seeking an outlet of that sort to connect them with both Glendale and Los Angeles.

TWO ARE INVOLVED IN SUITS OVER COW'S DEATH

PRINCETON, W. Va., Oct. 13.—Here's complicated law for you. Justice of the Peace Opie Karnes admits it's too much for him.

John Saronac has instituted a suit in the justice's court to recover $110 for the loss of a cow which died as the result of a "jag," he says in his complaint. The cow wandered off the home reservation and toddled over to the farm of George Harrison and ate too freely of mash on the Harrison place, according to the plaintiff. She got uproariously drunk and didn't survive. Saronac is suing Harrison for the value of the cow, holding that Harrison should not be so careless with his mash and have it in such an exposed place.

Harrison entered suit in the same court for $150 for the mash that Saronac's trespassing cow ate up. Harrison contends that he didn't invite the cow over to his place and that she "broke and entered" his place without his consent, and did then and there commit $150 worth of grand larceny.

Saronac and Harrison, neighboring farmers, have always been the best of friends, but this cow business has disrupted a long friendship.

The third angle of this peculiar case has the country jurist a-guessing. Inasmuch as mash in a state of fermentation is not a legitimate product, and yet, it is claimed, it was not the finished product the prohibition law forbids, the justice is puzzled. The Federal authorities may be asked to decide the status of Harrison's suit, after which Justice Karnes will hand down his decision on the cow's demise.

THUNDER WARNED WOMAN TO NOT WED

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 13.—A young Harrison County couple rushed into the County Clerk's office at the courthouse here recently just in time to escape the first big drops of a thunder shower which came up suddenly.

"We want a marriage license," explained the young man, while the blushing bride hung back a bit abashed, although the sparkle in her eyes and the smile on her lips spoke her acquiescence. Just then a terrific thunderclap occurred, startling everyone. And that settled the case for the would-be bridegroom. As soon as everyone had recovered from the shock of the sudden bolt the fair young lady changed her mind. No, indeed, she wasn't superstitious; but when a terrible clap of thunder comes out of the heavens just as a young man is about to get a marriage license it must mean something. The young woman wouldn't get married to anybody under such circumstances, so after the twain talked it over for some time, the prospective bridegroom using all his powers of persuasion, they left the place without getting the license.

MEXICAN LAKES IN DRY-UP CAMPAIGN

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 13.—Brethren of Isaak Walton here are worried over reports of the vanishing of lakes in the north, due to the drought, and the annihilation of millions of fish.

It is said that San Pedro lake in Coahuila, has become almost completely dry and that the ground which was once the bottom of the lake is filled with dead fish, some in piles, where hundreds have perished as the last puddles had dwindled to nothing. The odor from th dead fish taints the air for miles.

San Pedro lake has been a famous place for fishing, and the destruction of the fish has been unpleasant news to fishermen.

Other lakes are reported to be in the same condition as San Pedro lake. Many that are not actually dry are said to be so low that fish can be caught with the hands.

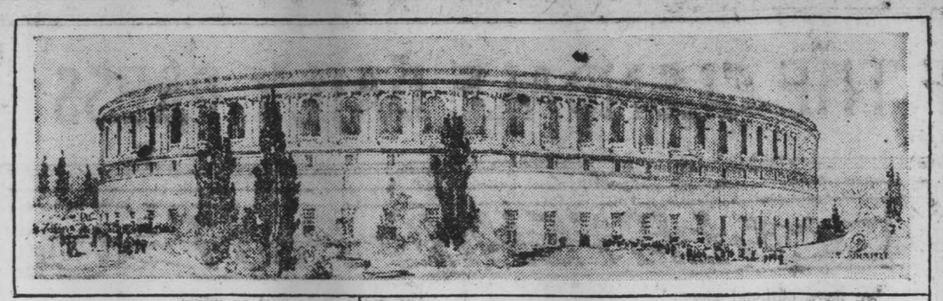
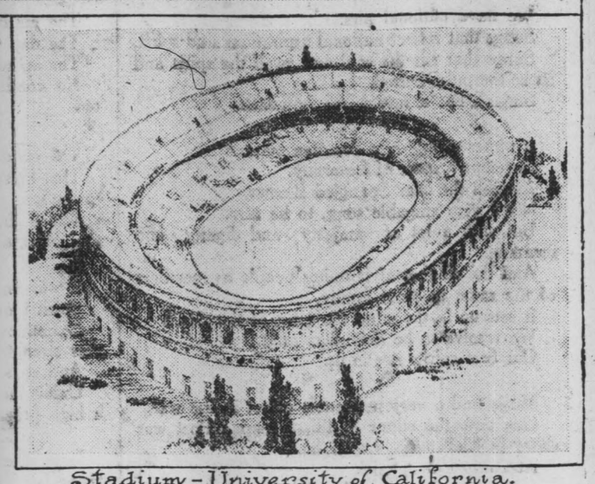
MILLION DOLLAR FOOTBALL STADIUM TO BE ERECTED ON CALIFORNIA CAMPUS





Stadium - University of California.

ARTISTIC BOWL FINANCED BY SELLING 20,000 SEATS COVERING TEN - YEAR PERIOD.

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 10.—Providing for a double-deck arrangement that will project the spectators toward the playing field much as spectators in a theatre are projected toward the stage, California's Memorial Stadium, to be built adjoining the State University campus at Berkeley, will offer something distinctly new in stadium construction, according to plans just announced. The double-deck arrangement was followed in building the stands at the Polo Grounds in New York, but the great university stadiums of the country, notably the Harvard Stadium and the stadium planned by the University of Illinois, are planned on a different basis, as is the Yale bowl.

The California stadium, to be erected during 1921-22 as a memorial to all citizens of the State who lost their lives during the great war, will further carry out the idea of theatre construction by being closed at both ends.

It will be elliptical in form and will have a seating capacity of 60,000, allowing five feet for each spectator. The stadium will be within scarcely more than a stone's throw from the fine group of buildings, constructed during the last six years on the campus, and an architectural problem already solved is that of planning it so that it will fit harmoniously into the general architectural scheme. To this end the stadium will be given an architectural beauty, with an attractiveness of line and form that will result from the inclusion of balconies, alcoves and winding stairways.

The stadium itself will cost $900,000 while land will have to be purchased at an additional cost.

To raise this sum a unique financing plan has been evolved. Twenty thousand seats over a ten-year period will be sold in units of two seats each. A payment of $100 will secure for the subscriber two $5 seats at the California-Stanford big game each year for ten years. The subscriber likewise will be given an option on the two seats if at any time his scrip will have been expended. The subscriber's name on a brass plate, will be sunk permanently into the concrete of his seats.

The California stadium is to be one unit of a large area and adjoining the campus that will be devoted to athletic, recreational and military activities. The area will include a huge memorial gateway, a memorial field, a gymnasium and an armory.

FERRIS HARTMAN OPENS T. D. & L. BILL

Ferris Hartman, famous comedian and musical comedy star will headline the initial Meiklejohn and Dunn Vaudeville Road Show at the T. D. & L. theater (formerly the Palace Grand) tomorrow at Saturday.

Mr. Hartman is supported by a company of fourteen people in the famous vaudeville version of the musical comedy success, "The Toymaker." A bevy of beautiful girls will be seen upon the stage and the various costumes are said to be magnificent. Special scenic effects are also offered.

This is by far the greatest headline vaudeville attraction ever brought to Glendale, costing an enormous sum and bringing vaudeville to a much higher plan in Glendale. Because of the very large stage at the T. D. and L. theater, standard full stage acts can be played with the same ease as in Los Angeles.

"The Toymaker" runs for fully 25 minutes and offers diversion of a different sort. Singing, dancing and comedy is featured throughout the action of the headliner.

The program at the T. D. and L. in fact will have two headliners, as the cyclonic comedy "Good Night Nurse", which goes direct to the Pantages theater in Los Angeles Monday afternoon, will also be here. "Good Night Nurse" is a one-act playlet just bubbling with comedy. Miss Martha Golden and her own company are featured. Miss Golden is the well-known Keith and Orpheum comedienne. Miss Ursula March, a comedienne of note is one of the principal members of the cast.

In all—five acts are included on this Meiklejohn and Dunn program, each and every act being carefully selected not only from one circuit but from the leading vaudeville circuits of the world. The special feature picture production, "The Off-Shore Pirate" featuring Miss Viola Dana will be offered on the same program. The management of the T. D. and L. theater announces that there will be no raise in prices for this huge double program. A bargain matinee will be given Friday and Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with two shows at night, 7 and 9 o'clock.

Today is the last showings of Constance Talmadge and Harrison Ford in "Wedding Bells."

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL DAD'S DEPUTY

PHILIPPI, W. Va., Oct. 13.—Acting in the capacity of a deputy for her father, who is Sheriff of Upshur county, Miss Gladys Zockefoose, aged 13, has just brought Sadie Atkins, a prisoner, to the Barbour county jail here from Upshur county jail at Buckhannon and turned her over to the sheriff of this county for safe keeping. The prisoner has been making "booze" and had been sentenced to jail for the offense. The young deputy was perfectly at ease in the discharge of her police duty and did the job in fine style.

LILA LEE SAYS "NO" TO CUPID'S STORY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—Why, certainly she is not. It was mean of them to say it over at the Fox studios. So there! Which means that Lila Lee, star of vaudeville stage and screen, has no intention of marry Jack Gilbert, leading man at the William Fox studios. Miss Lee admitted, however, that Mr. Gilbert qualified as just the nicest boy. And Miss Lee's mother admitted that the said Mr. Gilbert had been a very frequent caller at the Lee home of late. But—certainly she's not. Because she said so herself.

That hare and the tortoise story has had a bad effect on humanity. It is the only time that a turtle ever won a race and it will be the last; and, besides, it didn't win that one, because there wasn't any such race.

TEACH TEUTONS IN SCHOOLS OF PEACE

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—"It was in the schools that the Germans were taught the glories of war; it must be in the schools, then, that the Germans and all other nations must be taught the glories of peace."

This was Miss Jane Addams' reply when asked point-blank how any organization of women could prevent war. Miss Addams had just returned from a tour of Continental Europe on behalf of the society of which she is president, the International Committee of Women for Permanent Peace.

"My tour taught me one thing," continued Miss Addams, "and that is, though war came from the Germans it certainly appears as though lasting peace is also coming from them—at all events, if the efforts of their women count for anything. They have seen the horrors of war, and they will have no more of it.

"Already they have formed themselves into groups throughout the whole of Germany. Previously the German child — encouraged by the mothers, they admit — sang songs glorifying the good German Michael as a warrior, a conquering hero: now he is sung to as a peaceful toiler. For the change of spirit the mothers of Germany are responsible.

"We hope that spirit will gradually permeate the world. The women can do it; that is the mission of our organization, and although in some countries it is not so far advanced as one would like, yet everywhere I found a start had already been made in that direction.

"The improvement in the status of the women in Vienna was the most noticeable. Before the war women there were forbidden to take part in any political movement; now every woman over twenty-one has a vote, and they are entitled to sit in the Lower and Upper senate. Similar conditions exist in Greece, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, the non-Bolshevik part of the Ukraine and nearly all the other smaller Balkan states."

FINLAND IS DRY AS PACIFIC OCEAN

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Finland, despite its name, is "dry." The law, a Socialist made one, says so.

But the London Times correspondent in Helsingfors tells some strange tales.

In all the hotels a whiskey and sode costs 50 marks or about $1.54 at the present rate of exchange, and a vodka, or its substitute, about 25 marks. They are asked for openly, and no mystery is made about supplying them. The law, of course, is respected. Whether it be whiskey and soda or vodka, it is placed on the table in a mineral water bottle.

One has a strong resemblance to ginger ale and the other to pure water. None but the too curious could detect it. The police do not seem to be curious.

After a few days' stay in Helsingfors one is rung up on the telephone and a strange voice inquires if you are prepared to receive a friend in your room. You have not long to wait before a portly figure presents himself. When he retires he has lost some of his bulk, and you have in your cupboard the wherewithal to entertain your friends.

One must not be too particular. All the bottles are labelled "bottled in Scotland," but you are lucky if the contents ever saw a Scottish distillery.

To catch fishermen smugglers, who are waxing rich, the government ordered two motor boats. They are designed for a speed of eight knots, but when the specifications reached the customs authorities the speed was reduced to five knots.

The builders objected that with a speed of only five knots it would be impossible to catch the smugglers. "Quite so," was the reply of the customs officials.

COMPOSER JAILED BY MR. VOLSTEAD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—Vincent Rose, composer of "Avalon," "Whispering," "Make Believe" and other popular melodies, is in the city jail today following a bout with the Volstead act in which he lost the decision. Twelve cases of bonded liquor, said to have been seized in a "party" at Rose's home on West Pico street, constitute Exhibit "A."

IF YOU DON'T SEE IT JUST ASK FOR IT

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 13.—There are all sorts of queer business combinations, but the latest and most novel is the confectionery garage, which is situated in Exchange, W. Va. Patrons as they take out their cars can purchase candy, peanuts, chewing gum, tires, ice cream, spark plugs, sode water and automobile accessories in a room in the front part of the establishment.

MOTHER KILLED WHILE SAVING HER CHILD

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 13.—In an heroic effort to have her 18-months-old baby from being crushed by the Great Northern flyer at Espanola, Mrs. Anna P. Hienan gave her life. The woman was struck by the train and killed instantly. An unidentified man rescued the child a few seconds before the woman, wild with fear, stepped in the path of the train.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but becomes weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Truths in Epigram

Wait till a man's life be ended; till then call him not happy, but lucky.—Solon, one of the Seven Sages of Greece (639-558 B. C.).

There is nothing that is meritorious but virtue and friendship; and, indeed, friendship is only a part of virtue.—Pope (1688-1744).

ILLITERACY A CRIME

It is not enough that illiteracy should be recognized as a handicap to the individual. Nor is it to be regarded solely as a burden to the public. It should be looked upon as a crime; not involving moral turpitude, but subject to drastic correction.

In this country no man or woman of sound mind has any right to be illiterate. The community is at fault when it permits ignorance to flourish. The country is at fault when it fosters communities into which the light of knowledge does not stream.

In a large proportion of states schooling is compulsory, but often the law fails. It is not enforced, because children run wild despite authority; because parents are selfish and desire the wage of the little ones; because capital is willing to gain by the use of juvenile labor.

Often when aliens arrive in the United States they seek quarters already swarming with those of their nativity. They hear only the language of their earlier days, they read papers printed some language of Europe. They do not become Americans. They do not have even a vague conception of which becoming as American would involve. These, as well as the homegrown illiterates, need to be made to learn the language of the land, that they may read its constitution and absorb information as to its institutions.

It is incongruous that a man or woman should be allowed to deposit a ballot the printed characters of which convey no impression to the voter.

A person who has learned to read French, Swedish, Russian or any other language, is mentally capable of learning to read English, and should be required to do so before being admitted to citizenship.

The American ignorance, unfamiliar even with the alphabet, ought to be herded away from the polls and into the school room.

By systematic training and discipline, illiteracy might be banished in a few generations.

VALUE OF CHARACTER

Recently a bank messenger of Pasadena arrived at the institution with the report that he had been robbed of a grip containing more than $15,000. This was the sum he had been bringing from Los Angeles, just as he had brought many other and larger sums.

The messenger told a story of having been robbed at a prominent corner. It was broad day light, the hour when considerable traffic was to be seen on the street, and many passengers arrived, some by the train that brought the messenger. Cabs, with drivers in attendance, stood near. At least one policeman is to be seen on that corner at any part of the day.

Detailing the robbery, the messenger said that two men had done it, the first accosting him, diverting his attention by a bogus message, and the second holding a gun against him. When they had disappeared he ran all the way to the bank. Such was his tale.

Nobody could be found who admitted having seen any unusual episode. Nobody, so far as yet stated, saw the messenger as he ran the purported two blocks to explain what had happened.

Naturally the police were suspicious, but after long questioning they let the messenger go, unable to shake his story. But this is not the vital part of the narration at all.

The messenger was freed because his employers had faith in him. They had known and trusted him for years. They believed what he said, because they knew the character of the man. Appearances were against him, but appearances could not hurt him.

There is a familiar proverb which says "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

WAR HERO OVERLOOKED

Unfavorable comment has been made on the circumstances attending the retirement of Major General Dickman. He had served in the establishment long and with marked distinction. In the world war he commanded in succession a division, a corps and an army, brilliantly and effectively. To many Europeans he seemed the outstanding figure among American officers.

He was retired as major general, without the compliment of having been made a lieutenant general. The war department made nothing of the formality. There was no such ado as when General Wood was honorably discharged.

Whatever the justice of the dealings with Dickman, they were not without some measure of precedent. Generals Miles and MacArthur, both men of distinguished army career, suffered notable indignities. Miles as lieutenant general was as completely shelved as though his name had been effaced from the roster. When he retired at the age limit the only notice was the curt official formality. MacArthur, whose war reports as sent back from the Philippines were classic, and whose command there was highly creditable, received in due course, promotion to a lieutenant generalcy, but upon his return to the United States he got no authority with it. He might as well have been called lieutenant general emeritus.

All of these officers will have their rightful places in any history that deals with the feats of American arms. It is not easy to put a good reputation into eclipse.

PROTECTING THE CHILDREN

"Children were excluded from the courtroom."

Such was the concluding sentence of an account of a day's session of a murder trial. It should have been a wholly superfluous sentence.

The policy of admitting children to a murder trial could not reach a point requiring their formal exclusion were not the moral perceptions of some parents either dull or grotesquely perverted.

Men and women crowd into such places and thrill over the scenes there presented. This is not so harmful as the practise of letting the little ones ape the manners of the elders in this respect. It does not give a pleasing impression of intelligence or character. Adults seeking such spectacles have passed the stage at which they are likely to be degraded by the experience. Boys and girls deserve a chance to avoid an influence that to them, in the formative years of mind, could not but be debasing.

There is not a murder trial, nor indeed an event that reveals human passion in shocking phase, that is not turned into a veritable orgy of gloating by the ignorant or the evil-minded. The fact is deplored deeply, but there appears no remedy. Appeals to these social offenders are wasted.

If they can't be made to stay away, at least they might be compelled to check their children at the court room door.

It seems rather silly for a correspondent to have remarked that at a coming convention of democrats in Chicago presidential booms would be barred. The idea that any democratic presidential boom exists that at this early date could bear the rigors of exposure, is in itself an absurdity. There is more or less loose talk in relation to McAdoo, and frequent assaults upon him from the other side show that republican politicians think there may be something in his ambitions. But a candidacy discussed so far ahead is a mere excuse for wasting time.

Players on the champion baseball nine will receive about $7000 each as the result of the championship series. This is quite apart from their regular salaries, that in many instances run well into five figures. The profession of ball player, provided one be a player of the first class, is not to be despised. Men drop out of it at a comparatively early age, when, by ordinary prudence, they could have plenty of capital for entering business life.

∴ POLYGAMY ∴

By Dr. Frank Crane.

The Frenchman joined his finger tips, hunkered down in his chair and proceeded to celebrate after the manner of Frenchmen.

He sat in a chair on the boulevard, where it is pleasant on a fine day to watch the passers-by, and make the conversation

"There is a good deal," he remarked, "to be said in favor of polygamy.

"The man who renders three women happy is surely a better man than one who makes one woman wretched. Yet we suppress the benefactor by law, and encourage the malefactor.

"I do not say that we should divest this question of all sentiment; you can't do that, for it is essentially a sentimental issue; but at least we should subject sentiment to reason, after the manner of cultivated and enlightened people.

"Excessive sentiment, among the stricter moralists, even goes so far as to insist that two people who are daily making each other's lives unbearable should not be allowed divorce.

"Speaking in scientific strictness, I ask, Is man a polygamous animal? And in answer to this query, does not observation prove that it is a matter of temperament, of natural disposition? Are there not some men adapted by nature to have but one wife, others who would be happier with two, three, ten, and still others who would get along a deal better without any?

"It cannot be claimed that polygamy is bad for the health, since Methuselah and his co-patriarchs lived interminably, had many wives, and were blessed in their posterity.

"Of course, there's the Bible. It seems to sanction polygamy in the Old Testament and frown upon it in the New. And it is singular how we follow the New in matters of marriage, while in matters of war and vengeance and the like we brush the New Testament aside as impractical and cling to the Old.

"Another point. Does not prohibiting polygamy render it more attractive, and thus tend to increase it? From all I read about the prohibition of whiskey in America there is more consumed now than ever. If I am to believe your newspapers there is more drunkenness than when the saloons were in full blast. Millions of barrels of liquor are pouring over every border into the United States. Moonshine stills are in active operation. And people who never drank before are taking to their cups. I really cannot understand why the liquor interests are not in favor of prohibition. It seems strange that they oppose it, when the quantity of their sales is enlarged and the price has soared. But, then, we Frenchmen cannot understand America.

"But, my point is, if we were to legalize polygamy, and prohibit monogamy, would not many of your citizens, who now are surreptitious polygamists, become surreptitious monogamists, and while openly living with six wives, really be secretly living with but one?

"One more point. If a man had six wives, how would he know which one to obey? To obey one is difficult enough, but six—oh, la, la, la!

"I do not mention six mothers-in-law, Monsieur, for I am indulging in comedy, not tragedy.

"Eh, bien! It is getting cold. Let us go."

IN THE LISTENING POST

We have national airs.
Songs that reflect national aspirations and spirit.
Songs that stir the soul and swell the spirit and make the pulse bound.
Singing has a mysterious influence.

* * *

It unites people in a common mass.
Develops a spirit of fraternity.
As with the Star Spangled Banner.
Not a very singable song, to be sure.
But with a lot of majesty and dignity and meaning.
And the singing of it unites people as members of the same national family.
It sets up in the mind the spirit of the flag.
We resolve to be defenders of it.
Our best spirits rise in us.

* * *

Music had a very noticeable effect in the war.
One time the editor of this Listening Post was down in Alexandria, Louisiana.
At Camp Bureaguard.

* * *

At an early hour in the morning he was awakened by the noises of marching men beneath his window on the street.
Thousands of men marching back from a temporary camp.
And the march was eight or ten miles.
A long march in a hot country.

* * *

Even at the early hour it was hot.
And muggy.
And the lines of marching men showed the effects of heat.
And dust and weariness and all that.
And legs were being dragged along heavily and men's shoulders were drooping and marchers were wishing for a chance to stop and rest.

* * *

And then the band struck up.
A lively tune, with lots of sounding brass and drum beats and cymbals tinkling.
And the notes went shrilling and dancing forth from the horns.
And something got into the feet and legs of the tired men.

* * *

Steps were livelier and more alert, shoulders were lifted, and men marched along with vim and spirit.
The music lifted them up.
Lagging spirits were quickened.
Weariness was gone.

* * *

What was it?
The men had not changed externally.
The march was just as rapid.
The day was just as hot.
The air was just as muggy.
No condition had changed except an internal one.

* * *

The condition of spirit.
That mysterious thing that no one has been able to analyze or differentiate or set apart.
Which drives us on with a power as potent as that of steam or electricity.

* * *

It was an instance of the power of music.
Spirit blown into men from a lot of horns.
Something that made men live and walk with new strength and purpose.
And so a national air does.
Unites men with new spirit for what ought to be a high purpose.

* * *

Boys when alone in the dark woods a long distance from anywhere, whistle.
"Whistle to keep their courage up," as the saying goes.
And there is a lot more of human truth in that saying than we realize.

* * *

Some sing to keep the courage up.
Bands play to revive spirit.
Men have goue forth to war and bloodshed and death to the notes of harmonious music.
Why?
Because their courage was kept high.
Something enlivened them and made them spirited.

* * *

So if we have national airs, why not individual airs?
Henley had one:
"Invictus."
"I am the captain of my soul!"
Written when he was stricken and downcast.
But breathing high purpose and courage.

* * *

Stevens had one.
Requiem.
He was not afraid.
Calmly and serenely he looked forth to the end he knew was near and inevitable.
Tennyson had a lot of them.

* * *

And so may we all of us have one.
An individual song or air that breathes high spirit and courage.
What is yours?

JAMES W. FOLEY.

∴ SONGS OF THE POETS ∴

The World's Way—By Thomas Bailey Aldrich (1837-1907)

At Harmoun's court it chanced, upon a time,
An Arab poet made this pleasant rhyme:

"The new moon is a horseshoe, wrought of God,
Wherewith the sultan's stallion shall be shod."

On hearing this the sultan smiled, and gave
The man a gold piece. Sing again O slave!

Above his lute the happy singer bent,
And turned another gracious compliment.

And, as before, the smiling sultan gave
The man a sekkah. Sing again O slave!

Again the verse came, fluent as a rill
That wanders, silver-footed, down a hill.

The sultan, listening, nodded as before,
Still gave the gold, and still demanded more.

The nimble fancy that had climbed so high,
Grew weary with its climbing by and by:

Strange discords rose; the sense went quite amiss;
The singer's rhymes refused to meet and kiss:

Invention flagged, the lute had got unstrung,
And twice he sang the song already sung.

The sultan, furious, called a mute, and said,
"O Musta, straightway whip me off his head."

Poets! not in Arabia alone
You get beheaded when your skill is gone.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

SEDAN DAY ABOLISHED

[Minneapolis Journal]

A pacific signal recently made by the German government was the suppression of Sedan day. The battle of Sedan, in 1870, was peculiarly a Prussian success. While Sedan day was the German empire's Fourth of July, still it registered a Prussian rather than a German event. The new German republic might better celebrate the Eleventh of November, 1918, Armistice day, which gave the German peoples surcease from war and release from home tyranny.

Business men, solid citizens, the great middle class of Germany and her industrial and financial leaders are opposed to Hohenzollern return, because they fear lest the triumph of reaction shall revive military passion. Stinnes, Thyssen, other chiefs of industry no more than Walter Rathenau, want a restored monarchy, fearing that military revival would follow. They prefer deliberately to work out their country's and their own salvation by legitimate means of economy and production. They know that modern war, even victory, is altogether too costly a process. The stake of the well-to-do is altogether too precious to be thrown away by the ambition of a monarch and the cupidity of a military caste.

If the republic continues in Germany hterefore, with living becoming more tolerable among the majority, there will follow a reluctance to take so terrible a chance as war is now become. A republic has sense, moderation, and does not so easily lose its head because of glory's fumes. The best judgment in any community is that of those who have worked for what they have gained—such have more influence in a republic.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

Out of the national conference on unemployment have come eight specific recommendations. For the precise character of these, refer to news columns. Probably the average reader will deem every one of the suggestions excellent. But after all, they are suggestions, and nothing more. Universal application of the Golden Rule would end social and economic ills. The world is aware of this, but refuses to make the application. The conference, for example, wants railroad rates adjusted to a fair basis at the same time time "safeguarding the financial stability of the railways." But how? At present there is complaint from the public that railway rates are nearly prohibitive, and complaints from the railways that the rates they are permitted to charge represent ruin. Getting around a situation presenting this diversity of views is easy enough to wish for, but mighty hard to do. Then, again for example, "restoration of the pre-war price relationship." How? Profiteers have learned to adapt the law of supply and demand to their own purposes, by limiting the supply. Anybody able to beat that scheme will be entitled to a high place in the hall of fame.

One correspondent says that the Sinn Feiners intend to demand complete independence for Ireland. It is impossible to believe this. It would argue a lack of intelligence such as does not characterize even the truculent faction that has made curious demands in plenty. Were the Sinn Feiners to take this course it would be analogous to such a course, for instance, as the ku klux demanding the independence of Georgia.

Death from anthrax, which occurred in New York, is ascribed to an infection derived from an imported shaving brush. The germ of this disease is one of the most persistent known to researchers. It seems capable of surviving under amazing conditions of heat and cold and isolation. If the infection was carried in the brush, as suspected, a grave danger is evident. Most men in the United States shave. Small cuts in the skin are not rare. In this manner there is exposure to the chance of countless infections less deadly than that of anthrax. Perhaps in time the fashion will change again, and men be permitted to wear the beard that, as truly as the eyebrow, is a gift of nature. Scared at tales of wandering microbes, they have given microbes a chance these never had in days of old when the breezes soughed through populist whiskers.

The Congregationalist ministerial union has gone on record against a movie censorship. This may be regarded as far more important than the clamor of professional reformers who desire the privilege of censoring. The demand that the censorship be applied to pictures is only a symptom of the principle that would apply it to all human activities. Having procured this enlarged license an early course would be estoppal of editorial opinion. For example, this innocent little paragraph never would get by.

Scientists affirm that the temperature on the moon is many degrees lower than could be compatible with the existence of human life. Perhaps they know all about it. Everybody thought science knew all about it in the years it taught that the moon was dead itself and without life on its surface. So science, having been mistaken one time or the other, may be blundering in still different directions. Supposing the moon's temperature to be 100 degrees below zero, or 1000 degrees below. There might be organisms that would flourish there, the conditions, so inhospitable to human tissue here, to them being ideal. The layman has just as much right as the scientist to go into the guessing business.

There have been attempts to explain the prevalence of crime by blaming feminine fashions. This is not convincing. The man who steps out of a dark alley and hits you with a piece of gaspipe, is quite indifferent as to the prevailing sytle of woman's wear.

Another Rindge protest has been received by the county supervisors, and filed. They had to do something with it, and they have clerks who are paid to file things. This community has not known for many years of a time when at least one Rinde protest was not extant. Lawyers have fattened from the multiplicity of them. Courts have been cluttered with actions growing out of them. As a rule the protests have been against improvement. Little difference has seemed to have been made by the character of the improvement proposed to be made. At the mere proposal forth hurtled a Ringe protest, to smash itself against public opinion.

VETERANS' DAUGHTERS VISITED BY OFFICIAL

Resuming their meetings at the American Legion hall on East Broadway Tuesday evening, by request and invitation of the Glendale Post No. 127, the Mary Jane Gillette Tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, were greatly pleased with the changes that had been wrought by the Legionnaires. A great transformation has been made in the hall and the Daughters of Veterans were profuse in the admiration and appreciation of the quarters.

The meeting was especially interesting. due to the presence of the department president, Maybell Plymire of San Francisco, and members of her staff, who are making their official visits. Department President Plymire congratulated the tent upon its growth and activities, and laid special stress on the work of the press correspondent and the generous spirit of the Glendale daily publications.

Mrs. Plymire has just returned from the national encampment at Indianapolis and brings the gratifying news that the Daughters of Veterans in the California and Nevada department have won national honors for growth and patriotic activities.

One of the matters discussed at the meeting was that of the purchase of a suitable site for a Daughters' memorial home at Sawtelle. The money to purchase the site was raised in a very unique manner, each member having pledged themselves to earn by their individual effort the sum of one dollar to apply on this worthy project. In addition to this, donations are being received which, it is hoped, will make up the deficiency.

Miss Hazel Wilson was initiated into the tent, with the very impressive ceremony of the order. After being favored by short addresses from several of the visitors, light refreshments were served to the members and their guests.

Among the visitors were: Department President Maybelle Plymire of San Francisco. Department Senior Vice-President Margaret Stoner of Sawtelle and the department treasurer, Susie Stubblefield of Sawtelle.

READING CIRCLE AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

The regular meeting of the Reading Circle was held yesterday in the public library, with Mrs. A. A. Barton in the chair. The ladies continued the reading of "All the Children of All the People," by Smith. He brought out today that a child should never be hindered in what he is "strong" in and that we are coming to the age when the teachers will see that a child should not be held back from what he is "short" in just because he is "long" in other things.

There were about 50 at the meeting. The treasurer reported 150 paid memberships to date.

P.-T. A. PREPARING FOR FATHERS' NIGHT

At the meeting of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations yesterday afternoon at Intermediate, the resignation of Mrs. M. H. Kuehny as secretary was accepted. Mrs. Kuehny explained that other engagements would make it impossible for her to always attend the meetings.

The reports made by presidents of the individual associations showed that nearly all are planning for "Fathers' Night," and are appointing room mothers. The prospects appeared bright for an excellent and profitable year of parent-teacher work. The prediction was made that the federation will have a membership of 3000 before the year closes, as against 2246 last year.

There was considerable jubilation over the passage of the school bond issue by such heavy majorities, and the president was instructed to convey to the Glendale Daily Press the appreciation of the federation of the publicity given the bond campaign.

In recognition of "Columbus Day," a few patriotic numbers had been provided by Mrs. W. H. Crawford, chairman of patriotism. Mrs. E. B. Moore sang "America the Beautiful," and Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, made a brief talk in which he dwelt on the thought of what Columbus Day should mean to Americans.

MRS. MARLENEE TO ENTERTAIN SECTION

The music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club is to be entertained tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. by its curotor, Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, at her home on South Central avenue.

As it will be the first fall meeting of the section, it will be more of a social affair than an afternoon of study along the course outlined for the coming year. There will be piano numbers by Miss Gertrude Champlain and vocal solos by Mrs. Virginia Freeman, a fine soprano who is a newcomer in Glendale, for whom Mrs. Young will act as accompanist. Refreshments will be served at the close of the program.

PLANS ..... ESTHAR

Glendale ex-service men who wish to continue their education may now make application for Government aid, is the announcement made public today by James F. McBryde, adjutant of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion.

The necessary application blanks have been received from the California Veterans' Educational Institution and all veterans who intend to take advantage of this help are urged to make application at once, as the board acts on the applications in the order in which they are received. Mr. McBryde says he is willing to give all the assistance possible to former service men in the matter of filling out applications.

The first item that is called to the attention of applicants for his educaional assistance is the fact that absolutely no action will be taken on any application unless the applicant has recorded his discharge from the army. navy or marine corps with the county recorder of Los Angeles county.

RESTAURANT IS TO INCREASE HOURS IN SELIG'S MARKET

G. H. Smith, who operates the lunch and soda fountain concession in the Sam Seelig market on North Brand, announce that in addition to several improvements now being made, the counter will be open, beginning Monday, from 6 a. m. to p. m. every day.

The counter will remain open all day and in addition to the regular merchants' lnuhc that is being served there from 12 o'clock to 1 p. m., short orders will be served. Mr. Smith has arranged a tempting menu and one that is within the reach of everyone's pocketbook. He says he is enlarging the counter and extending his business hours because he felt that Glendale has been in need of a place where good home-cooked food can be obtained at all times during the day, and every day in the week.

Mr. Smith has already hired his staff of cooks, who will be on duty in the kiechen in sight of the diners at all times, and is negotiating for a hotcake griddle and waffle iron. Women only will be employed in the kitchen and the concession will feature pure cream waffles, steaks and chops.

This concession was enlarged recently by the installation of a $1,000 soda fountain. With the announcement that the place will be open until 9 o'clock in the evening, and on Sunday. the concession i nthe Seelig market takes its place among the leading restaurants in the city.

Latest From Paris

Paris is again setting the pace in the fall headwear for milady. The creation on top is the newest style from Paree. It is made of purple velvet, fashioned after the Russian and trimmed with graduated colored grapes around the front. Below is a black velvet and jet beaded chapeau which bids fair to prove popular with the elite this fall.

MANY FAIR YOUNG LADIES IN CONTEST

Many of Glendale's fair daughters have entered the American Legion contest to choose the "Queen of the Festival" to be selected by popular vote on Armistice Day. The queen will ride on the honor float in the parade and will reign supreme at all festivities of the Legion on that day.

In addition to being "Queen of the Festival," the winner of the contest will be awarded a diamond ring as a prize. Other valuable prizes will be given to the contestants with the second and third highest number of votes. The first standing of the contestants will be published in Friday's issue of the Glendale Daily Press. An automobile will also be given away by the Legion during Armistice week.

FAMILY NIGHT FOR ALL PRESBYTERIANS

At the local Presbyterian church Friday evening, a service will be conducted which, through the years, has become known as "Family Night." This service is preparatory to the communion service which will be observed Sunday morning. A well-known speaker will preach the sermon, and the entire household of each family in the congregation is expected to be present. So important is this service considered by the church officials that no other church services or gatherings will be held on that evening. The session will meet at the close of the service to receive new members, and it is expected that a large number of new members will be publicly received at the service on next Sunday morning.

The woman, according to an affidavit read in court Tuesday, was seen riding with Wm. Herron, defense attorney. She and Herron were cited to show cause today why they should not be punished for contempt of court.

At the opening of court Buck said that her reason for taking the ride seemed plausible and that she was released from the charge. Mrs. Dennery had said she missed the bus and was in a hurry to reach court. Action on the case of Herron was postponed because of his absence. E. J. Emmons, chief attorney of the defense, began his argument when court opened today. He tore to bits the theories and evidence of the prosecution.

"Why was the tent brought in?" he asked. "The prosecution claims Father Heslin was kidnapped and murdered on the night of August 2. Then why the tent, and why are there no blood stains on the tent, if blood is said to have been found on the pieces of lumber that were buried?"

Hightower appears shaken by the trial. He spent a restless night in the San Mateo county jail last night. All night he lay sprawled on his bunk—fully dressed in the clothes he has worn in court.

Doris Shirley Putnam, nemesis of William Hightower, may be Dolly Mason, the mystery woman of the murder case, was the startling statement of Emmons in his argument.

"The two correspond in every detail," he told the jury. "And if you substitute the name of Doris Shirley for Dolly Mason, you have a reason for her leaving San Francisco as she did by taxi across the ferry to Oakland. And you have a reason for her leaving her trunk behind. She went because she was afraid."

As Emmons thrust this theory before the jury, Hightower turned suddenly and glanced toward Doris Shirley where she sat beside her husband, Lee Putnam. The woman did not move an eye as she met the stare of her former consort.

Purse Taken—Mrs. E. Bromby reported to the police yesterday afternoon that she left her handbag and purse lying in her car for no tmore than five minutes while the car was parked at the corner of Maryland and Broadway, and that when she returned both the purse and handbag were gone. The handbag contained a gold bracelet, a ring box and a small leather purse containing $4.90 in silver.

Heald Moves—W. E. Heald. jeweler, who has for several years been located at 1401 South San Fernando road, has moved his store to the main business center and will occupy space in the new building recently completed at 125 West Broadway. Mr. Heald has lived here 11 years and has been identified iwth the business life of Glendale as a jeweler for six years. Mr. Heald moves from his old location in South Glendale, formerly known as Tropico, to his new location in order to better accommodate his increasing trade.

Called East—Mrs. George Warner of North Orange street received a telegram Tuesday announcing the death of her brother, Rev. Thomas Avery, at his home in Homer, Neb. Mrs. Warner left yesterday morning to comfort and assist her aged sister, Miss Julia Avery, who has made her home with their brother. When Mrs. Warner returns she will probably be accompanied by her sister.

The small toe is disappearing because we do not use it. Is it? Will legs also disappear because we have substituted automobiles for them? No.

TAD'S FRIENDS SE EK HELP FOR HIM

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Well," said wise old Dr. Muskrat, after he'd heard about the pickle Tad Coon was in—up in a willow tree by the Little Dark Pool with two angry young foxes swearing they'd pick his bones—"We'll have to get somebody bigger than any of us to help rescue him. And we'll have to hustle up about it too."

"Oh, he's all right," put in Chips Beaver, reassuringly. "He was afraid they'd catch you folks because you can't climb the way he can, but he wasn't worrying about himself. They can't possibly reach him. He seemed to be having a good time."

"That's just why we'll have to hurry," returned Nibble Rabbit. "We don't know what he's up to so we can't guess what's likely to go wrong with him next."

Off They Went, Ka-flick-it, Ka-flickit, Pit-a-pat, Pit-pat

"You see," Thunderpaws the Skunk sniffed, half-a-giggle himself at the remembrance of some of the old coon's other scrapes in the Woods and Fields, "t's the T in Tad's Tricks that always begins to spell his troubles. The minute he begins to play his jokes—

"We have no time to lose," finished Dr. Muskrat decidedly. He'd been listening with only an ear-tip, as the woods-folk say, while he combed his head with a thoughtful paw, as if he were sorting out the ideas in it. Now his hair stuck up like Chaik Jay's crest—and he had found the plan he was looking for. "Nibble, you'll have to get Watch, the Dog. And tell him to bring Tommy Peele, and Tommy's big cousin, Sandy, too, if he can manage it. This is going to be a Big Hunting."

"And Louis Thomson! We musn't forget Louie Thomson," insisted Thunderpaws. "He's Tad's 'special friend.' I'll go get him."

Off they went, ka-flick-it, ka-flick-it, pit-a-pat, pit-pat. Nibble ahead because he was the fastest and he had the farthest to run, leaving Chips Beaver to stare with big round eyes at Dr. Muskrat.

"To me pee! San-dee. Lu-wee—how do you say it? And what does it all mean?" he asked. His tongue was all squirmed up trying to get around the man-talk. His people had never lived near man-made things, like a fence, or a bridge, let alone a barn, like the folks who visit our fields. Because a beaver wouldn't find anything to eat there. So man-sounds seemed very queer to him.

"They're men," smiled Dr. Muskrat. "No you needn't hunt for a place to hide in—they won't hurt you. Let's drop into this brook and float downstream till we hear what is happening to Tad."

NEXT STORY: WATCH, THE DOG, IS MISSING.

SAFETY FIRST PLAN WHEN WAGE CUT WAS REACHED

Clash Appeared To Be Coming When Question of Wages Came Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The National Unemployment Conference was split wide open today on the question of recommending wage cuts. The split came when employer members of the conference presented a statement declaring that wages must come down hand in hand with prices.

When it appeared that a serious row would result from the discussion of the wage reduction question, the conference was adjourned, to meet again on the call of Secretary Hoover. Hot verbal clashes between employer and labor delegates were thus avoided.

GERMAN TITLES ARE EXISTING DESPITE NEW RULINGS

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Equality, at least the outward manifestations of equality as evidenced by the democratic abolition of titles, has failed in Republica Germany. "The new Federal Constitution abolished orders and titles," writes the Berliner Tageblatt, "but the stroke of a pen was unable to remove the vanity of humanity in general and the weakness of the German in particular for fine-sounding, highfalutin titles.

"Titles are inseparably connected with the monarchical form of government and have no place in a republic. Nevertheless, more value is placed on a title today than under the old regime. Scarcely a day passes but what some group of government officials petitions for the regulation or the adjustment of the title peculiar to their posts."

German orderliness required that everyone have some sort of designation or title, so that anyone could immediately be placed in exactly the proper pigeonhole in the social system. Thus one finds in the telephone directory, under Schmidt: "director," "factory owner," "merchant," "publisher," "barber," "farm owner." These titles are used much more frequetly than given names.

The Kaiser government awarded professional men of proven merit such titles as "Justice Councillor," "Sanitary Councillor," and "Commercial Councillor." Artists, sculptors, musicians and great surgeons were given the highly-covered title, "Professor," which had no connection with the teaching profession.

The chairmen of the Berlin physicians' society and bar association have protested that the abolition of the honorary titles has worked a great hardship on the professional men, who now can't get titles from the Republican administration. The patients and clients are under the old title hypnosis; the man with the biggest title is the best doctor or lawyer, and they are flocking to the offices of the men who retain their titles from the old regime.

"But the rush for titles is in no small degree due to the vanity and influence of the weaker sex," continues the Tageblatt. "For the designation 'Frau Stellvertretender Oberkrankenkasseninspector" is still not without some thrills.

"Inspection of the list of titles shows several hundreds of official designations for government employes. These titles, even under the Republic, are as much a part of the official names of the civil servants as the title of 'colonel' or 'general' in the army.

"The list of government employes begins with 'ferryman' and ends with the 'Reichskanzler,' which is probably not without a symbolic significance. In between comes a confused aggregation of more or less bold names."

The Tageblatt, which is one of the leading organs of the democratic group, urges its readers to fight the fight through, hard though it be against the big odds, until Germany realizes that the measure of a man is not a piece of ribbon or a title, but his actual accomplishments and personality.

INDIANA POET HAS ASHES SPREAD HERE

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 13.—To carry out the dying wishes of Richard Lew Dawson, Indiana poet, that his ashes be scattered to the four winds from the same funeral pyre from which the ashes of Joaquin Miller, Poet of the Sierras, were cast in 1913, a pilgrimage of friends recently visited "The Hights," Miller's rustic home in the hills, and there carried out the ceremony.

Dawson, a true lover of nature, was a great admirer of Miller, and it was one of his last requests that, if possible, his remains be finally consigned to the ground on the spot made so beautiful by the love and care and sanctified as the last resting place of his old friend.

Dawson's relatives in Indiana, who were unable because of ill health to come west, sanctioned the carrying out of his desire as to the disposal of his ashes and the Miller family gladly agreed.

A number of Dawson's friends and many of the chance visitors to "The Hights" attended the ceremonies. Juanita Miller recited her poem, composed for the occasion of her father's funeral, and Dr. Kibbe, president of the Joaquin Miller Club, made an appropriate address. The committal service was read by Charles P. Carter, Dawson's former employer and close friend.

Mrs. Douglas Newell has returned to her home in Kenosha, Wis., after spending several months with her sister, Mrs. H. R. Boyer of 232 North Orange street.

LATEST LABOR-SAVING DEVICE

The latest invention in the way of pictured here, which takes the place of twenty men, according to the inventor. It is an auto-truck attachment which automatically bores postholes. It consists of a huge earth-boring auger on the end of a twelve-foot, geared shaft, mounted on the front of the chassis of an ordinary automobile truck. The power plant of the truck furnishes the power for the boring machinery—the simple expedient of disengaging the clutch of the truck and throwing in that of the boring apparatus being the only operation necessary in digging a hole of any depth down to ten feet. The driver operates the entire mechanism from his seat on the truck. After the hole is bored the permanent derrick on the body of the truck lifts the pole from the roadside and rrops it into the hole ready for the army of "tampers" to follow.

FORD RAILWAY NOW FORSEEN IN U. P. INTERVIEW

Automobile Man Is Planning to Establish a Direct Route to South

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The possibility of an all-Henry Ford railroad extending from Detroit to Mobile, was seen here today by railroad men in Ford's exclusive statement to the United Press that he had secured an option on the Cincinnati, Milford & Blanchester road, which gives his Detroit, Toledo & Ironton road an entrance to Cincinnati.

If Ford obtains title to the great Muscles Shoals plant in northern Alabama, it is believed to be his plan to secure an all-Ford direct rail connection between Detroit and Muscles Shoals, with a southern extension to Mobile, which will give the automobile manufacturer direct route from his plants at Detroit to the Gulf, tapping his West Virginia properties, the Muscles Shoales plant and the Birmingham iron and steel districts.

POISON GAS WILL BE AN IMPLEMENT OF PEACE NOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Poison gas, perhaps the most terrible and most dreadful of all war-time weapons, is being utilized as a peace-time asset to combat the boll weevil, Nemesis of cotton planters, and other "civic and industrial" pests.

Since the World War chemical research work has gone forward with repid strides, resulting in the development of many new chemical gases and other chemical products. The War Department now plans to use these gases in the extermination of not only rodents that infest the disease-breeding quarters of cities, but also the rodents and insects that destroy the agricultural crops.

Implements of Peace

"The developments of war must be the implements of peace," said Brigadier- General Amos A. Fries, chief of chemical warfare of the Army. "Accordingly, the chemical warfare service has begun a campaign to develop gases that will attack and exterminate not only the rats that infest sewers but the bugs and worms that eat up the leaves and fruits of various agricultural products."

Chemical warfare has already been proven effective against the rodents and other pests that are a menace to humanity. Recently a group of experts were sent to Cuba by the Army with chemicals and other instruments for destroying rats and other vermin, and the result of their efforts was reported to have been highly satisfactory.

More Tests Asked

Already requests are coming in, through Congress, for further experiments in various cities of the United States in waging war on similar pests.

To cooperate in every possible way with the efforts of war-time forces in peace-time work against rodents and other pests, the War Department has requested the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior for any suggestions they may desire to make. Both departments, it is understood, are working on the new problems, and concerted action is expected in wiping out the rodents and insects that are a constant, serious meance to the health and agriculture of the country.

The reason that there has been so little house building lately is because automobiles are a necessity.

A careful man thinks of his "gas" before he starts to drive. Also he considers his "gas" before he starts to talk.

Now that there are no Indians to fight and the "Wild West" has become tame, what do normal boys do for mental exercise?

Ambition will not bear a halter.

EVICTIONS CAUSE OF TOWERS BEFORE CHIEF LASKER

Hundreds of Millions of Dollars in Houses Is Bone of Contention Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—An explanation as to why he ordered the evictions of 100 tenants from shipping board houses at Lorain, Ohio, was demanded by Chairman Lasker from William Towers, Philadelphia, in charge of the board's houses, when he appeared before the chairman today. After denying that the board had ordered the evictions, Lasker found that the order had come from Towers.

Lasker will discuss with Towers the entire question of policies regarding shipping board houses. The board desires to sell the houses, which cost $100,000,000, as soon as possible, and auction may be resorted to, if satisfactory bids can not be obtained. The total number of persons now living in the board's houses is 28,064.

The projects involved, except a few which have been sold, include those located at Lorain, O.; Bristol, Penn.; Essignton, Penn.; Wyandott, Mich.; Manitowoc, Wis.; Seattle, Wash., and Oakland, Calif.

BEST-LOOKING GIRL CAPTURED IN RAID

SAVANNAH, Oct. 13.—Miss Alice Moore has the distinction of being the best-looking person ever captured in a moonshine still raid. Miss Moore, however, is not under arrest, nor is she charged with taking part in distilling. She is held as a witness following the raid on a still said to have been operated by Mark Brand and Bruce Kirby. Kirby was killed in the raid. Miss Moore states she was captured by the men and forced into watching for Federal agents.

Valley Chambers—Secretary James A. Rhoades of the Glendale chamber of commerce attended a meeting last night of the secretaries of the various chambers of commerce of the San Fernando valley, the affair being held at the home of Cecil Wilcox, secretary of the San Fernando chamber of commerce. This was the regular monthly meeting of the secretaries, the purpose of the meetings being to get better acquainted and talk over chamber work in the valley generally.

DR. BRUMFIELD IS FOR NEW YORK GIANTS

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 13.—Far more interested, apparently, in the world's series than in the battle being waged to save him from conviction as the alleged murderer of Dennis Russell, Dr. Richard M. Brumfield read the sport pages of the papers today while waiting for court to open. The defense maintained that the state has not proven the identity of the body. Brumfield is "pulling" for the Giants to win the series.

COAL MINE STRIKE MAY BE STOPPED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers today took drastic action to end the strikes of coal miners which have been ordered by Alexander Howatt, president of the Kansas Coal Miners' Union. By a special order the Kansas miners were removed from the jurisdiction of Howatt and placed directly under the national organization.

Human nature is so much alike that if you are inclined to be original it is bound to resent it. The commonplace is easily understood and always approved.

LARGE INDUSTRIES THREATENED BY A GREAT STRIKE

Railroad Employes and Packing House Workers Are Involved

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Employers and workers in two of the largest and most vital industries in the United States were prepared for a finish fight here today. With the majority of 2,000,000 railroad workers and 75,000 packing house employes on record as favoring a strike and employes in both industries standing pat, events moved toward an industrial crisis.

CLIMB MONUMENT TO REDUCE WEIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Climbing the several hundred steps to the top of the Washington monument has become a popular indoor sport, according to the annual report of Colonel Clarence O. Sherrill, superintendent of public grounds and buildings of the District of Columbia.

Whether bent on reducing weight or other similar reasons 73,314 persons elected to walk to the top of the monument, compared to 166,664 less ambitious people who preferred to use the elevator and save shoe leather—not to mention the saving of the wear and tear of the marble steps.

MILLIONAIRE WILL PLAY SAFETY FIRST

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Frank Auditore, the "millionaire stevedore" of Brooklyn, has obtained an order for the arrest of his wife, Louise, on suspicion that she was about to sail for Europe with $89,000 in Liberty Bonds belonging to him. Auditore, who came into the limelight during the war as an over-night millionaire, went to Justice Aspinall in the Brooklyn supreme court to get his wife arrested. She intended to go abroad, he declared, and refused to give up his bonds. The order expressly calls for bail of $88,000, which Mrs. Auditore will be permitted to supply in the form of Liberty Bonds.

Then there is the kind of welfare worker whose chief aim is his own welfare.

Covina Lost—The Glendale union high school football team of lightweights yesterday afternoon defeated the lightweight team of Covina high school at Covina by a score of 14 to 13. The game was one of the fastest that has been played so far this season. Both touchdowns and goals kicked by the local team were made in the first five minutes of play.
The Covina varsity team will play the Glendale high team tomorrow on Moyse field, Glendale.

Glendale Wins—Boys of Intermediate soccer team won by a score of 8 to 0 in the game played Wednesday afternoon with the Pasadena Military Academy team. They were considerably heavier than the visiting team, and the return game, which will be played next Wednesday at the Pasadena school, will be limited to boys 5 feet 2 inches in height, who will be coached by Mr. Mansell, one of the new teachers. Gus Wangenheim, the sporting goods man at Neale & Gregg hardware store, umpried the game.

TEACHERS HEAR LEADERS TALK

least once a month, and said that an effort will be made to compile a list of all pupils in the county who live five miles or more from a school house, or who are physically unable to attend school.
He referred to the delay experienced by teachers in securing their salaries promptly by reason of the revision of the law that trustees and county officers cannot issue warrants until after the service they represent has been performed, and deprecated any attempt to evade the law on the part of school officials. He also explained the registration of warrants by which they draw interest from the date of issue.
He closed by declaring that Los Angeles county is in the midst of the greatest growth in its history, its school enrollment having exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine optimists and the demand for more money is so urgent that now is the time for moderation and economy.
A violin solo, "Spanish Dance," was given by Miss Hazel Linkogel, which brought a tumult of applause to which she responded with a Kriesler number. Mrs. Dora Gibson was the piano accompanist.
The next speaker was County Superintendent Chenoweth of Kern county, who greatly entertained his audience with a humorous exposition of certain radical views, making many a sly dig at scholastic traditions which drew laughter and applause. He said in part:
"I am somewhat of an anarchist in relation to institutes. I do not believe a great deal in the present form of institute. It is about as archaic as the grand jury system. I hope to see the day come when every teacher will be required during the summer to take some course at the university of State normal on full pay. (Applause.)
"We must now conduct them in this manner, and your county superintendent is doing his very best to fulfill the law. He is one of the best interpreters of law that we have in California. (Laughter.) I cannot pass without a tribute to 'Militant Mark' Keppel. If I were ever to write a penny shocker I would take 'Militant Mark' for my hero. I believe he has done more for the teachers of California than any other superintendent in the state.
"The program for a teachers' institute is supposed to be a menu that covers everything from soup to nuts. You may think you are getting the nut course now, but I assure you, if you absorb everything I shall say to you, you will have everything in a nutshell."
The afternoon program opened at 2 o'clock with Superintendent Richardson D. White presiding.

ARBUCKLE TRIAL IS SET FOR NOVEMBER 7

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—November 7 was set today as the date for the trial of Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, accused of manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe. Request for a continuance of the arraignment was denied after a lengthy argument. Arbuckle then pleaded not guilty and his trial was set. He will be arraigned this afternoon in Federal court on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Baby's Shower—Mrs. Alfred Muhleman and her new baby daughter, Esther May, have left the hospital and returned to their home on Windsor road, and the little girl has been made the recipient of a shower from the Wednesday Club, of which Mrs. Muhleman is a member. As she lacked for nothing in the way of a layette, the shower took the form of a savings account of $15.

Intermediate Wins—In the volley ball contest between girls of Cerritos and Intermediate, the Intermediate girls won two games out of three. The fine team work of Cerritos won the first game for them, but they went to pieces in the second and third games, due, it was thought, to getting rattled over the cheering of the fans.

Were you ever involved in a violent argument that made you feel better afterward? Neither was anybody else.

ONE APARTMENT HAS CHILDREN, SAYS MRS. SIBLEY

Answers Charge That People Who Have Children Are Barred as Tenants

"Children are welcome in the apartments of Glendale, providing they have been reared properly and are good children," said Mrs. Laura E. Sibley, owner of the Brandale apartments, 718 South Brand boulevard this morning.

"The real estate agents of Glendale seem to delight in knocking the apartment house keepers of this city, but right here I want to say something in their defense.

"It is true that in many instances children are not wanted in rented property. In these instances no one can be blamed but the parents of the children. These parents permit their children to deface the rented property in a shameful manner, in many instances the damage done being greater than the rent that is paid in. The only thing we as property owners can do in cases of this kind is to get rid of these people as quickly as possible. This is the sole reason why children are barred from the apartments of Glendale or any other locality, for that matter.

"In my apartments on Brand I have a family with a girl who is going to high school and another with a girl 11 years old. Very soon I will have a family with a small baby in one of my apartments. Does this sound as though children are barred from the apartments of Glendale?

"There is another reason why the apartment house keepers are being knocked by the real estate dealers and that is because few apartments are listed with the agents for rent. The reason for this is that the commission charged by the agents is too high. They charge a commission of 25 per cent of the rental price, which I claim is too high, and I am a licensed real estate broker, too.

"Let the parents bring up their children so that they may be trusted out of sight of the landlord, and let the agents of Glendale be satisfied with a nominal fee for renting, and things will run along a little smoother between landlord, agent and tenant. Good children are always welcome in the apartments of Glendale."

MRS. RODWAY HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Hannah M. Rodway celebrated her 90th birthday on Saturday at her home, 325 North Howard street. The gentle little lady bears the burden of her years gracefully, enjoys excellent health and takes a keen interest in life. She boasts of having crossed the Atlantic seven times and remembers distinctly the various incidents of her many travels, and delights to tell of almost rubbing elbows with Bismark, the Iron Chancellor, and his beloved sovereign. Many times she watched the Empress Eugenie coming out of the palace at Tuillieres to her carriage, the ill-fated Prince Imperial accompanying her. "Such a nice lad," she avers.

The poetess, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, was a warm friend of Mrs. Rodway, and composed some of her earlier writings at the Rodway home in Milwaukee.

Those who helped celebrate Mrs. Rodway's birthday were Dr. A. G. Stalnaker, Marian Gray, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reeks, Ellis Reeks, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Lucy Painter of Venice, Mr. and Mrs. Thoo. T. Reeves of Brighton, England, and the hostess, Mrs. E. E. Tamplin.

"PILL BOX," CLEVER PLAYLET, A SUCCESS

The clever little playlet, "The Pill Box," was given Tuesday by girls of the Westminster Guild before an audience that filled the auditorium of the Glendale Presbyterian church.

The little drama brings home in a most convincing manner the great work performed in foreign mission fields by the medical missionaries, in the uplift of the ignorant and unfortunate, particularly the women and children, and the great need of such ministration. Miss Mildred Elliott had the leading part and filled it most creditably. The play introduced several songs and it closed with the solo, "Just As I Am," by Mrya Johns.

Following the performance which was enthusiastically applauded, a collection for the support of missions was taken.

KELLY RESIDENCE SOLD TO GRIBBON

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Kelly report the sale of their very attractive residence property at 554 North Glendale avenue to Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gribbon, new-comers from New Jersey. The Kelleys will rent a home until they can improve with a residence a lot they own on North Adams street.

Meanwhile Mr. Kelley has put an architect at work drafting plans for the business block with which he intends to improve the lot which he owns on North Brand between Wilson and California.

INTROSPECTION

When with the world-mask off, we sit alone
Stripped of our shams in meditation deep,
As the lone harpist sits who tests the tone
Of every string; when pretense lies asleep,
And wakeful Truth roams restless in our hearts
Flashing its light in gloomy depths unseen
Save to ourselves; when helpless all the arts
We practice to deceive ourselves, that clean
We seem, as the foul leper might cloak o'er
His festering shape, and dream himself made whole,
Salving with self-deceit a hidden sore,
'Tis only then we see the naked soul
With its infirmities and livid scars,
And shudder in the silence, nor endure
To view the naked cicatrix, that mars
The soul the Master gave us to keep pure.

VAGRANCY CHARGE AGAINST WOMEN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—A charge of vagrancy was today substituted for that of suspicion of murder lodged against Mildred Bellwin and Jean Monroe, actresses, held in the city jail since the death of Al Stein, motion picture director, following a liquor party in his apartments.

The tentative murder charges were dropped when a chemical analysis of Stein's stomach by Dr. L. H. White found no poison present. Acute alcoholism was given as the cause of death.

MARSE WATTERSON CONTRIBUTES TO T. R.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The Roosevelt Memorial Association announced that it was making a newspaper record of the former President's life, and that among the first contributor's was Col. Henry Watterson, who donated his anti-Roosevelt editorials appearing in the Louisville Courier-Journal. Colonel Watterson had the distinction of leading the fight against a third term for Theodore Roosevelt—one editorial in his paper going to the extent of calling Colonel Roosevelt insane—and at the same time being on intimate personal terms with the object of these denunciations, frequently calling on him.

M'ELROYS ARE BACK FROM TRIP OVER UNITED STATES.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McElroy arrived home Sunday evening from a delightful trip of "seeing America first." They report a wonderful time passing through 28 states and stopping at 60 cities and resorts.

Their route was by way of New Orleans along the Gulf states to Jacksonville, Florida, thence up the Atlantic coast to Portland, Maine, visiting the White mountains, then westward along the Great Lakes and over the Canadian Rockies to Victoria, B. C., and down the Pacific coast to Los Angeles.

They met many people returning from a sojourn in Florida as they went up the Atlantic coast and Californians in New York, Boston and the eastern resorts.

In the Canadian Rockies at Banff and Lake Louise the closing season was enlivened by hundreds of bankers and their wives enroute to the bankers' convention at Los Angeles.

Their longest stop was at Washington, where they stayed a month visiting the many points of interest in and around that lovely city.

They were there also at the closing of a most successful season of gaieties and were able to catch glimpses of the occupants of the White House and other notables in Washington.

The present administration is very popular with the people as many places that have been long closed to the public are now opened to them.

The applicant must be not only a registered nurse but have passed the state examination prescribed for a public health nurse.

HOUSE WANTS MORE MEMBERS NAMED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—House Republicans at a caucus decided to support the Siegel bill to increase the size of the House from 435 to 460 members. It was said 94 members agreed to vote for the bill while 76 indicated they would oppose it.

Vigorous opposition to the measure developed at the caucus, it was understood, several members of the census committee leading the fight to retain the present size of the House in opposition to the stand of Chairman Siegel and a majority of the Republican membership of the committee.
